

Training: IGEL Education

At IGEL, we see regular, targeted training as one of the most important drivers of our business. Whether you need to refresh your knowledge of our products, take an in-depth look at the underlying technology, or develop new expertise in industry sectors, our training provides you with all the tools for better business with your customers.

● Qualification and Training

Sales and technical training sessions are held on a regular basis and are designed to give you the knowledge and expertise to lift your business above the competition. By providing you with valuable insider knowledge and tips, we can help you win and implement more effective and successful projects.

Our services

Benefits for You as our Channel Partner

Qualifications/Training

Regular sales and marketing training sessions throughout Europe
Regular technology training sessions

High-quality training directly "from the source", available at multiple locations
Gain an introduction to server-based computing with thin clients or become a specialist in support, pre-sales or remote administration with the IGEL Remote Management Suite